1960 Now Photographs Of Civil Rights Activists

Artist and activist Sheila Pree Bright honours the Civil Rights activists from America's past and celebrates the people who carry on their important work today in this fine art photography book.

Collected in a handsome volume, the book contains striking black-and-white photographs from Bright's project #1960Now - full-face portraits of Civil Rights leaders of the 1960s and today, documentary shots from Black Lives Matter Protests, and short essays from prominent artists, activists, and scholars. #1960NOW functions as a reminder that every #1960Now generation has heroes who are willing to fight for equality and social change.
